A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Pam Wolkowitz President

Greetings to Everyone!

I think our fall weather is upon us and the possibility of frost is near. We have been blessed with a lot of nice weather which has allowed Chester and me to work on our new garden and get some of our hostas in. We have a lot to do, but hope to have you all out next summer. I trust you all have had a good gardening year, as we even learn through our mistakes and failures.

The year is winding down and I have enjoyed being your President and trying to bring you lots of information that you can use in your gardens. The thing I have enjoyed most is getting to make some new “hosta friends” and talking garden with them. We have some exciting things for next year, too, so stay tuned.

And what better way to end the year than with our Annual Christmas Party. There is always lots of good food, a couple of games for laughs and plenty of hosta talk as we share our dreams for the New Year.

Hope to see you all there.

Pam

Coming Event – November

'Show St. Louis Hosta Society' Phyllis Weidman

St. Louis Hosta Society
November 21, 1:00 PM.

In the past, several members of the St. Louis Hosta Society have received requests from other garden societies for someone from our group to present a program about hostas. During the past year, Phyllis Weidman, Pam Wolkowitz and Kelly Hall combined their talents to create a presentation that meets this need.

The program consists of a DVD plus a written script. Any member of our Society could present this program, practically stress free. One would start playing the DVD, stop at the appropriate time and read from the script, then restart the DVD. Sounds simple!

Phyllis, Pam and Kelly will demonstrate just how simple it is. The DVD runs approximately 20 minutes, which leaves plenty of time for questions. Let's see how they put it together and what's involved in giving the presentation to another organization to which we belong.

In addition to the DVD another 'Hosta Show and Tell' is on tap. Ever have the urge to see what would result if you harvested and planted some of those seeds hanging from hosta scapes at this time of year? Don't quite know how to get started? Come to the November meeting where Jim Weidman will tell us how to plant and care for those tiny black seeds. I'm sure there's more to it than just sticking them in the ground.

THE ST. LOUIS HOSTA SOCIETY ANNUAL HOLIDAY PARTY

Sunday, December 5 at 1:00 PM

Don't miss out on the fun! Karen Frimel is putting together a FUN afternoon guaranteed to put you in the holiday mood. Karen and Tim Cancila from 'The Gas House Grill' have corroborated on a menu sure to put a bulge in our waists. Tim catered last year's successful party. We loved his good food, his excellent service and the fact there were no dirty dishes to wash and dry.

Reservations are required. November 21 is the deadline. Price is $10.00 for each person attending. Please RSVP by paying at the November meeting or by mailing your check to:

ST. LOUIS HOSTA SOCIETY BOARD MEETING

November 15, 6:00 PM

In November of each year, the Board meets to set the meeting schedule for the coming year, to formulate and review the list of programs and activities planned for the new year, and to discuss past and future concerns of the Society. All Society members are invited to attend this meeting and are encouraged to offer their ideas, suggestions and opinions. Let the Board know your wishes. Get to know your officers.

This year's meeting will be held at the home of our Vice-president Phyllis Weidman. Let her know you are coming and she'll gladly add another chair to the circle.

October 21 meeting

Dave Wanninger presents 'Plants for a Shady Garden'

Dave Wanninger interacts with members during his presentation.

Members helping Dave package his gift peonies.

Dave swapping information with members Carol and Phil Brammer, Pat Payton and Jean Hudson.

In October, members met a most affable, enthusiastic and gregarious speaker, Dave Wanninger. Although he has his special loves, - indeed, coming to us from Klehm's Beaver Creek and Song Sparrow Nurseries, how could he not love peonies and hosta - Dave was quite knowledgeable about a wide range of plant cultivars suited to our shade gardens.

Dave's criteria for a good plant include interesting foliage color, leaf variegation, leaf texture, good form, long life and above all low maintenance. He likes plants that 'grow gracefully old just like us'.

Dry shade, which most of us have in abundance, presents a challenge. Usually in such situations, plants must compete with tree and shrub roots for moisture and nutrients. Tree canopies provide the shade plants love but at the same time often present a physical barrier to falling rain. Gardeners can overcome dry shade by keeping plants well watered, by occasionally spade-cutting encroaching tree roots and then applying compost. Compost supplies nutrients, improves drainage, helps hold moisture and promotes healthy soil.

While listing many plants which are strong growers in the Midwest, Dave also gave hints about the best cultivars, their growth habits and some of their quirks. Black Snakeroot, takes shade very well, but its purple color fades in the shade. So give it a little light. Astilbe is a shade favorite but needs good moisture. However, the chinensis and x arendsii varieties are more dry tolerant. Try the beautiful, dwarf pink 'Perkeo'. Speaking of color, look for the bright gold Bleeding Heart 'Gold Heart'. The contrast of gold leaf and bright pink flower is stunning.

There are many new seed strains and a new hybrid Helleborus. The "Metallic Blue Lady Strain" is dark blue, while the "Double Queen Strain" is a dainty pink. The new hybrid 'Ivory Prince' has upright white blooms. Did you know these plants can take a substantial amount of sun and that in heavy shade the plant shape flops? Heucheras also like a bit of light, especially the green and purple leaved ones.

Want a shrub with great fall color - look for Fothergilla major 'Blue Shadow'. Interested in a pink 'Annabelle' Hydrangea - watch for 'Bella Anna' in 2011.

Thanks Dave for an enjoyable Sunday afternoon. I can't wait to track down that dark blue Helleborus.

October Hosta Show and Tell

Pam Wolkowitz holding mystery scape brought in by Carol and Phil Brammer. Members decided that it came from h. nigrescens.

This month Pam Wolkowitz shared her thoughts and practices relating to closing down your hosta garden for the winter. Among gardeners there is a difference of opinion about whether to clean off or not to clean off withered hosta foliage. Pam feels if there is any chance your hostas might harbor fungal or nematode disease, then definitely clean off dead foliage and send to a landfill not your compost pile. Also if you are plagued with voles, they love to tunnel under fallen leaves. Pam likes to wait until March to put down mulch.

Now is the time to check tags, replacing the missing and mangled. Why does that keep happening? Tags seem to be like the missing socks in the laundry. Where do they go?

Pam covers her pots with a double sheeting of frost cloth with leaves over that. She brings her minis into the garage and gives them about a shot glass of water in Jan. Jeff and Kelly Hall stated they stack their pots on top of each other in the garage and don't water them at all. They bring them in after the first hard freeze. Jean Hudson and Pat Payton store their pots outside under the eaves of their house so they don't get a lot of water. They all suggest tilting pots and troughs to make sure drain holes are not against the ground and water doesn't pool in the pots.

Fall is a time for retrospection and thanks giving. First there was an abundance of water – how many of us were ready to build arks - then there was none. Some plants didn't survive the colder winter, but that just made room for new varieties. The MoBot sale and member auction gave us ample opportunity to fill those newly vacant holes.

That barren hosta bed at the Missouri Botanical Garden looks much better already. The labels jutting about the bed give a hint of what's to come. Just wait until spring!

We were educated this year. My wish list of shade companion plants lengthened after talks by Bill Ruppert and Dave Wanninger. The trip to Shaw Nature Reserve opened our eyes to native plants that can become inhabitants of our own gardens. A garden walk at Karen and Greg Frimel's offered ideas on unique ways to mix hardscape, hostas and companion plants.

What would a garden club be without good food. Our year began with a delicious pot luck luncheon and ends with more good food, our annual Christmas Party. In between, Barb Moreland sat a beautiful table each and every meeting. Hopefully lots of garden bending and stooping helped melt those gained pounds away.

Thanks to ALL who gave of their time to ensure another successful and satisfying gardening year.

UPCOMING REGIONAL EVENTS

Midwest Regional Hosta Society Convention

July 7 – 9, 2011

Madison, Wisconsin

Remember all those sweltering days last July? Did you feel that you just had to get away from the heat, if only for a few days? The Wisconsin Hosta Society is offering you that opportunity next July. MRHS Convention Chairman, Irwin Johnson, sent newsletter editors a letter giving a glimpse of the activities planned for next summer's event.

Attendees will tour five private gardens. The Convention will include the ever popular leaf show, vendors from the four corners of the United States selling hostas, conifers, companion plants and other garden related merchandise, and both a live and silent auction.

Friday night's feast will be a Pig Roast overlooking beautiful Lake Monona and the state capitol building. A buffet breakfast Saturday morning and a box lunch Saturday midday is included with your registration.

It's not too early to plan a July vacation. More information and registration forms will appear in a spring issue of this newsletter. If you wish more information now, contact
